(teachers only) beginning year _____ ending year _____ subject(s) _____

Upon graduating from JAHS, I joined the Air Force. Eight months later, Irene and I married. Over the years, we lived in Texas, Mississippi, South Carolina, North Dakota, Maryland, Michigan, Georgia, Ohio, New Hampshire, and Washington. Traveling, we visited 49 of the 50 states. Journeys abroad included: Okinawa and Vietnam, for me and Germany, for the family. In Europe we toured the Netherlands, France, Luxembourg, Austria, Belgium, and Italy.

For nearly thirty years, I plied my trade in sundry fields including: communications, operations, packaging, transportation, logistics, development engineering, and weapons systems acquisition. I attained a B.S. (Engineering Management) from Michigan State and a M.A. (Psychology) from Ball State.

Retiring as a major in 1990, I acquired a M.I.T. (Masters In Teaching) from Seattle University (1992), whereupon we soon came to be, "Back Home in Indiana". This fall, I will begin my fifth year of teaching.

In 1987, Irene graduated from St. Joseph's School of Nursing in New Hampshire. She now supervises several people in a major medical clinic, when not otherwise independently conducting a plethora of drug studies.

Our son, Jeff, is in personnel at Fort Hood, Texas. He will soon attend journalism school in Virginia. Jeff is married and has a two year old son.

Currently, Irene and I relish inventing new ways to spend money; of late she collects dolls, teddy bears, and antiques, and I collect Colt Single Action Army pistols. Both of us have birds, but of different ilks. Irene has five parrots named Woody, Max, Smoky, Rudder, and Dillie; whilst I have my beautiful, red, restored 1960 Studebaker Hawk. Together we enjoy travel, reading, walking, antiquing, target shooting, and golfing. Individually I also run, exercise, collect coins, and watch avidly Notre Dame football.

For those of you like Jack, who think I was "invisible" - well, it ain't true! I was just the plebeian you often saw sleeping in study hall and class who happened to be "camera shy" in the 1961 Album. Auf wiedersehen!
